DR. PAUL REINSCH, BOUND HOME, ILL IN HOSPITAL HERE

Former Minister Stricken In Hankow Suffers Breakdown

CAN SEE NO VISITORS

Absolute Rest And Quiet Has Been Ordered By Physicians

Dr. Paul S. Reinsch, former American Minister at Peking and now advisor to the Chinese Govern ment, who became ill at Hankow on his way from the Capital to Shanghai, arrived here on the steamer Poyang under care of Dr. G. S. Stephenson, U. S. N. and Dr. Selden G. Lowrie of Cincinnatti, Ohio, and is at present in the Victoria Nursing Home in a serious condition.

Doctor Reinsch came to China early in the summer accompanied by Doctor Lowrie and Dr. Henry J. Furber. After making a tour of North China he spent a considerable period at Peking where his health first began to fail. He was on his way to take steamer at Shanghai to return to the United States when he fell ill at Hankow and it was deemed advisable to bring him from that point to Shanghai for treatment.

His condition is such that his physicians have ordered complete rest for him and particular request has been made that no visitors call to see him or seek to communicate with him. It is anticipated that Doctor Reinsch will be able to continue on to America shortly.

YEAR'S PROFIT OF EASTERN CABLE CO. IS £1,686,000

Extensions To Far East To Be Completed By 1923

(Reuter's Service)

London, October 18.—Sir Denison Pender presiding at the annual meeting of the Eastern Extension Australasia and China Telegraph Company said that the gross receipts in 1921 were £2,390,000 as compared with £2,515,000 the previous year. The decreases was due to trade depression. The working expenses were £1,052,000 as compared with £1,196,000.

London, Oct. 18.—At a meeting of the Eastern Telegraph Company today Sir Denison Pender who was presiding said that the gross revenue for the year was £4,124,000 as compared with £4,381,000 the previous year.

The expenditure was £2,438,000 as compared with £2,988,000 and the profit £1,686,000 as compared with £1,393,000. He stated that £500,000 had been transferred to the reserve and £568,000 carried forward whilq the dividend had been 10 percent tax free.

Besides £1,000,000 provided by increases in capital the Company since the Armistice had spent out of the general reserve over £2,250,000 in laying additional cables and in renewing sections of the main cables.

A further £700,000 had been expended which would be dealt with later together with the balance of the cost of the new cables to complete the program of strengthening the main lines to the Far East.

It was hoped to complete the program early in 1923 when the Company would be in a position to deal satisfactorily with any eventuality.

The Company had been working in close co-operation with the Post Office and in India and South Africa it had agreed to extend the Company's landing licences for 25 years subject to the right of the British Government to purchase the whole of the Company's cables, plant and land stations or such part as mutually agreed upon.

Sir Denison Pender complained of unfair competition of the Post Office in the Australian traffic. He said that the Post Office was actively supporting the Pacific Cable Board route against the Eastern route to Australia.

He announced that the Indo-European Telegraph Company hoped that their line between Britain and Teheran would be restored shortly.

"Home, Sweet Home"

—By Arcady

"BE it ever so dirty there's no place like Home!" Dwellers in yurts, the crude, peculiar shaped tents of white or black felt in which Mongolians are born, live and die chanting a Mongol version of the famous old ballad. The air's so thick inside they have to go outdoors to change their minds!

A Romantic Trek From The Land of The Midnight Sun Through The Heart Of Asia, The Fantastic Land of Mongolia, And Mysterious Thibet To Shanghai.

X—THE MONGOLIAN AT HOME

By Larry Lehrtas

"Have you ridden well?"

Whenever a rider approaches a yurt in Mongolia, whether it be on the mountainous Siberian border, the shadowy, mystic Thibetan border, the border on the China side with its merged types and races, or in the heart of the desert, he is asked if he has ridden well. It is the universal greeting of the Mongols. The 'hello,' the 'glad to meet you,' the 'nice weather we're having' of the steppes, desert and mountains. The Mongols, born to the saddle, do their thinking, as well as their living, in terms of horsemanship. To ask the visitor if he has ridden well implies the highest appreciation of his well being they can pay the casual visitor.

The greeting comes as a happy change after the first greeting one always gets when approaching a Mongolian yurt. The yurts of Mongolia—in addition to sheltering the Mongolian families—are the homes of hundreds of fierce, wild dogs—the true Mongolian wonk in his native state. Each approaching traveler, and especially the stranger within the borders of the country, is greeted with snarls and barks as he rides up. Several times Serge and his companions were set on by five or six of the dogs, snarling and snapping, who jumped to the horses' saddles until they were beaten off with whips.

The barking always calls forth the Mongol owner of the yurt who, after making sure that the new arrivals are friends, or at least neutrals, wields a long, rawhide whip until the dogs, still snarling, sulk behind the felt castles of the desert-folk. Once the dogs have been driven away and the travelers dismount the host, with a wide smile, always asks the centuries-old "Have you ridden well?"

The yurts of Mongolia, as the illustration by Arcady so well shows, are dome shaped tents of white or black felt, held together by stakes and rawhide. One door, or flap, is the only entrance, and it is so low that one entering must always stoop low. No windows, or crude apertures of any kind for fresh air or light, are found on any of the yurts. Even on the hottest days of summer, when the interior of the felt tent becomes a steaming, sweltering oven, the flap is raised only when one enters or leaves.

DESERT 'CASTLES'

Inside the yurts is the primitive 'furniture' of the nomad Mongols. Not knowing the heighth of supreme bliss one gets from smuggling down in a couch of exquisite comfort with shiny brass railings or flower painted ends the Mongol has no bed as civilisation has come to understand the meaning of the term. The Mongol simply flops down on a pile of sheepskins without even getting into pajamas—for pajamas are said to be most unncessary in the wilds of Mongolia—pulls another sheepskin over him if the weather is cold, and begins his usually nightly snoring party.

Serge and his companions slept in such fashion for many chilly nights, but always sought the sky for a roof whenever possible in the warm weather because of the regiments and battalions of flies that, despite science to the contrary, walk the ceilings of the yurts, or buzz about with their nasty hum for 12 months out of every year. The flies of Mongolia, as Serge and others in the calvacade found out many times, can carry more disease in the little suction pockets of their feet than fourteen of the

'ANCIENT CHINA,' LECTURE TOPIC, DELIGHTS CROWD

Dr. Darroch Gives Interesting Discourse Before Asiatic Society

Interesting tales of the long drawn out struggle between the ancient Chinese kingdoms of Wu—now Kiangsu—and Yueh—now Chekiang—at the time the Greeks were fighting the famous battle of Marathon, were told to an appreciative audience at the Royal Asiatic Society rooms by the Rev. J. Darroch yesterday afternoon.

The Rev. Darroch spoke on "A Page From Ancient Chinese History" and described in interesting detail the period in old Chinese history stretching from 495 B. C. to 472, when China was composed of a number of minor kingdoms, all in conflict with their neighbors. The Rev. Darroch drew the material for his lecture from ancient Chinese source books including the Bamboo Annals—which tells the entire story of the 23 years in 8 characters—the Ch'un Tu'iu Spring and Autumn Annuals, a history of the state of Lu written by Confucius, Sze Ma Ch'ien's history, written by the Herodotus of China at the time Julius Ceaser was playing about the streets of Rome as a boy, and the T'ung Gien Imperial History.

The story unfolded by the Rev. Darroch was that of advisor after advisor who was sent the sword of doom, a polite reminder from the ruler to commit suicide, of the defeats, victories and deaths of the successive kings of the fighting states, of a great naval battle that was fought in a lake near the present city of Soochow and other extremely interesting side-lights of early rule in what is now the Chinese Republic. One king, defeated by his enemies, slept on a bed of brushwood and hung a gallbladder before him which he tasted ocassionally to remind him of his humiliation. Another king began the first recorded campaign against race suicide by offering state rewards to fathers and mothers of children.

The entire text of the address will be reprinted later in the Society's journal. Dr. Parker presided at the meeting.

Many And Beautiful Are Attractions At Country Fair At The Town Hall

Booths Prettily Arranged And Well Stocked; Fashion Show Reveals Beautiful Gowns Worn By Prettiest Women In Shanghai

By Westa

"Dick" Little, one of the ol' timers among Chicago newspaper reporters, and one of the funniest goofs that ever pounded a typewriter, was once sent out to a Chicago suburb to interview John Farson's clothes, John Farson being an eccentric banker whose tastes ran to loud wearing apparel. John had a collection of waistcoats that resembled nothing in the world so much as they resembled a sunrise, unless it was a sunset, and his trousers were figured with stripes and checks that forced everybody in Oak Park, where he lived, to wear smoked glasses.

Well, Dick went out one day to interview these clothes of John's and the following Sunday he wrote a story about them in the Tribune that was so funny that for a month afterwards he was kept busy day and night sorting out the offers he received for the film and dramatic rights.

One of the items he elaborated upon in the interview was a bright red waistcoat, and one of the questions he asked this vest was: "And what do you do to justify your existence?"

"What do I do!" exclaimed the vest, indignantly, "Why, I am an ornament to Mr. John Farson, and to the banking profession, just as I would be an ornament to you, and to the newspaper profession if I belonged to you."

A WRONG GUESS

"Nope," replied Dick, "you're wrong there, buddy; you would not ornament the newspaper profession if you belonged to me, because you and I would be a saloonkeeper for a few weeks, and then we'd be an alderman."

For some reason a visit to the Country Fair that is being given at the Town Hall under the auspices of the American Woman's club made me hark back a dozen years to John Farson's cerise waistcoat. It would be difficult to explain this, unless, subconsciously, it sprang from the wish that somebody with a bright red waistcoat could march up and down the streets of this town as a reminder to everybody that this fair is a really wonderful doings, and that those who miss it will miss something worth while.

For one thing, the ladies who conceived and planned and executed this fair have been altogether too modest about it. They should have been telling us about it a month ago, and continued telling us right up to the closing date. For truly, it is something worth talking about, from the pretty lassies who sell tickets at the door clear back into the farthest ante room where for the modest sum of seventy cents, small money, they will sell you a piece of fried chicken that would cost four dollars gold at the Ambassador or the St. Francis or the Cecil.

The Town Hall has been beautifully decorated for the event, with a wealth of flowers and flags and bunting that gives the place a charming appearance. In the center there is a pagoda like affair with a full fledged orchestra topside to furnish music to those who like to dance.

PRETTY BOOTHS

All around the side walls and in the adjoining rooms are booths that are beautifully arranged and decorated, and in which all the pretty girls in Shanghai are on duty as sellers of all sorts of articles which everybody needs, and which might just as well be purchased from them as from anybody else, bearing in mind that all the profits go to a very worthy cause, namely, the building of a club home for the American Woman's organisation in Shanghai.

In one of the adjoining rooms there is a cafeteria where everything that is good to eat is sold at very modest prices, and served by the prettiest bandits that ever smiled a man loose from his odd dimes.

Just as a sample of what these booths offer, take the Northwest section, for example. In this booth there is an assortment of groceries, etc., that came in from Seattle only yesterday, on the President Jefferson. These include some of those famous Hi-Yu-Skookum apples, salmon, clams, jellies, Paul's jams, American hams and bacon, and a barrel of brown sugar.

And that is typical of all the booths.

In the evening—this evening and tomorrow evening—there will be tea dances, and also a repetition of the fashion show. This latter is a treat that should not be missed, for here, from six to seven, there is a display of the very latest in feminine gowns and frocks, all worn by the most beautiful and best dressed women in Shanghai.

The fashion show was really wonderful, both in the wealth and

Y.W.C.A. DRIVE NETS $5,751 THUS FAR HERE

Little Over Third Of Amount Needed Is Secured To Date

The second rally tea of the Y.W.C.A. campaign for sixteen thousand dollars for the budget of the coming year was held yesterday afternoon at the campaign headquarters and $5,751.50 was reported as the grand total collected up to date.

This amount falls far short of the amount needed for the work, the campaign for which opened October 11, but those who are collecting funds report an optimist belief that the full amount will be collected by the close of the campaign on October 26.

The third report tea will be held on next Monday afternoon at the headquarters 11A Quinsan Road at five o'clock, and the fourth and last report rally on the following Thursday.

The Chinese workers are earnestly endeavoring to bring in more than fifty percent of the returns. The percentage of Chinese support or the organisation all over China during the past year, exclusive of the salaries of the foreign secretaries, was seventy percent against the thirty percent of Western support. The Shanghai ratio of Chinese support has not made as good a showing in the last year as that of interior cities but reports of this year look toward a substantial increase.

Bring Six Charges Against Mack In Giesel Action At British Supreme Court

Larceny, Forgery And Conspiracy Are Counts Facing Former Employe Of Company In Case Raised By Employer

Additional charges were brought in the British Police Court yesterday against Mr. A. C. Mack, who was charged previously with the forging of trademarks of James Hennessy and Company cognac and larceny of brandy, vermouth, corks, capsules, etc., belonging to Giesel and Company, which firm is involved in the action brought in the French Mixed Court against the concern mentioned.

In the British Court Mr. P. W. Goldring appeared for the complainant and Mr. J. O. Andersen for the defendant. The hearing is before Mr. G. W. King, Magistrate.

Mr. Goldring informed the Court that he had added a number of charges and had also altered some of the previous ones.

The Magistrate: "It is rather unfair to the accused to make additions and amendments to the charges."

Mr. Goldring: "It is really the accused's fault."

The Magistrate: "How can you say that? You are certainly wrong, Under the British law the accused is entitled to know what he is charged with immediately. Please do not say that again."

Mr. Goldring: "I hope Your Worship is going to deal with this case as a preliminary investigation with a view to committing the accused for trial."

The Magistrate: "I shall see. I must know first of all what you are going to do with the additional charges."

The Magistrate then explained to Mack the new charges framed against him by the complainant and also the amendments to the charges previously made.

In all six charges are made against the defendant: (1) that on June 25, 1922 he stole 227 cases of vermouth of the value of $1,362 from the complainant's godown at 1A Chaoufoong Road, stored there on behalf of the Marshal of the United States Court for China.

(2) That on September 5 last he stole a quantity of bottles, corks and capsules and empty cases valued at $170 and a quantity of French brandy valued at Tls. 250, the property of the complainant.

(3) That on August 30 he stole 10 barrels of Rye whisky valued at $2,000 the property of the complainant.

(4) That in the months of July, August and September last in the complainant's godown and without the knowledge or consent of the complainant forged the trade marks of Jas. Hennessy and Company Cognac by branding and stamping the corks, capsules and packing cases with the name and trade mark of Hennessy, and by falsely applying to certain cases of brandy a trade mark so closely resembling the trade mark of Jas. Hennessy and Co. as to be calculated to deceive, and applied a false trade description to such goods.

(5) That on September 7 last at Chaoufoong Road stole 10

SHRINERS OPEN THEIR BIG SHOW NEXT WEDNESDAY

Complete Departure From All Precedent In Staging Will Mark Coming Production

Something altogether new—a departure from all precedent in dramatic productions—is promised in the Minstrel Show that is to be staged by Shanghai's Mystic Shriners of Nomad Oasis at the Olympic for four nights beginning Wednesday, October 25.

In addition to a long list of novel and diverse musical offerings that enter into the program an exceptional departure will be presented by the shriners when they stage their new Levee Scene "En Curtaine" instead of in the antiquated flats and drops style that has been the mode hitherto. The Washington Square and the Boston Community players have adopted this method of arranging effects, depending solely on the efforts of the company rather than on the artificial mirage and camouflage of painted scenery. It is thought this will set the pace for future productions of this nature.

With the Minstrels occupying the stage for an hour, an olio of nearly this period and the Levee scene of somewhat shorter duration, a melange of melody and mirth will be provided for the best part of three hours in which will be no delay for shifting of scenery and props.

A brilliant array of local talent has been recruited to assist in the olio. Included in this list are such well-known entertainers as Mr. E. F. Graham Barrow, The Silas Brothers, Mr. Glemby and his ukulele and a number of songsters and producers of mirth.

Tickets for the show may be obtained from any shriner and the booking is now open at Moutrie's.

VLADIVOSTOK ABOUT TO BE OCCUPIED BY RED FORCES

Government Unable To Give Protection To Consulates

RAIL LINE CUT

U. S. Consul Wires That Route To Harbin Is Closed

A message received yesterday at the American Consulate from American Consul Winslow at Vladivostok reports that traffic over the rail line connecting Vladivostok and Harbin has been wholly interrupted, as the line has been cut by the conflicting Red and White forces.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, Oct. 19.—Specials from Vladivostok state that the City Assembly has refused to accept responsibility for the care of arms or for protection of the Consulates. The Dieterichs Government has ordered all civilians to leave the city for China on ships commandeered for the purpose. The messages also state that the Japanese Commander has moved his headquarters on board a transport.

Peking, Oct. 19.—The Chinese Chamber of Commerce of Vladivostok has telegraphed to the Government requesting the despatch of a warship for the protection of Chinese residents. The Cabinet this morning resolved to instruct the Minister of the Navy to send two warships. The Government has telegraphed to the Tuchun of Heilungkiang ordering the despatch of reinforcements to the border in order to prevent routed Russians from entering the province.

The representative of the Far Eastern Republic at Peking has informed the Government that two vessels of the Russian Volunteer Fleet have left Vladivostok for Chefoo and has requested the Government to detain them if they enter a Chinese port.

English Election May Be Held On Armistice Day

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 19.—The latest development in the political situation is the sudden decision of the Executive Committee of the National Union of Conservative Associations yesterday evening to call an emergency session of the organisation early next week, doubtless because the party conference has been fixed for November 15, too late to effect matters. The move was taken without the cognisance of the Unionist Ministers. It is stated that Mr. Bonar Law intends to attend and address a meeting of Conservative members of Parliament at the Carlton Club today.

Sir Laming Worthington-Evans, the Secretary of State for War, speaking at Colchester yesterday evening said that a general election was necessary with no avoidable delay. The Armistice Day, November 11, is mentioned by the press as a possible polling day.

A War Office circular states, among other things, that in the event of an early general election it would be fought on the autumn register which came into force on October 15.

New River Vessel Runs Trials Here; Leaves Shortly

The trials of the s.s. Tze Sui which was recently launched from the shipyard of the Societe Franco Chinoise de Constructions Metalliques et Mecaniques were successfully carried out yesterday by the builders, the owners and several guests being present.

The guaranteed speed of the vessel is 14 knots per hour and she attained a speed of 15.3 knots p.h.; this giving here on ample margin of speed. Entire satisfaction was expressed by the owners.

The vessel was accepted and will leave Shanghai within a few days for service during the winter months between Ichang, Chungkiang and Sui Fu.

HEAD OF FUKIEN IS OPPOSED BY LOCAL BODIES

Opposition Raised Against Man Who Double-Crossed Ex-Tuchun Of Fukien

(Special To The China Press)

Foochow, October 19.—Strenuous opposition has been expressed by the local organisations against the attempt of General Wang Yung-chien, the brigadier-general who captured Foochow with the aid of Little Hsu and General Hsu Chung-chi, to acquire the supreme civil and military powers of the province. The cry of "Fukien for Fukienese" is now being made in spite of the high-handed policy of Wang to suppress the agitation.

Wang double-crossed Li Hou-chi when the latter was tuchun, it is charged. He failed to take into consideration the elements which combined to oust the former military governor and has engendered a great deal of wrath from the Kuomingtang camp, which expected but did not get the lion's share in the spoils of the Fukien warfare. A section of the Kuomingtang party is also reported to be agitating for a campaign against Wang, demanding the appointment of General Hsu Chung-chi as the commander-in-chief of all the forces in the province.

Meanwhile, Generals Hsu Shu-tseng and Hsu Chung-chi have called a military conference to discuss the question of the rehabilitation of Fukien. It is expected that the present position of Wang Yung-chien will form one of the main topics of the conference. The attitude of Wang is causing a great deal of anxiety among the residents in this city as it is feared that a fresh combat will be staged if Wang refuses to take a secondary position.

C. E. RAIL MEETING

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Oct. 16.—The reason for the postponement of the fourth sitting of the meeting of Shareholders of the Chinese Eastern Railway, until Wednesday next, Oct. 18 is stated to be that the official protocols of the last meeting, in Russian and Chinese, according to established custom should be read and approved before the assembly passes to the discussion of other questions, but owing to the brief interval this could not be done before the times fixed for the meeting today. The meeting as usual will take place in the local office of the Russo-Asiatic Bank.

Pretty Booths At The Country Fair

beauty of the gowns displayed, and in the distinction given to them by the women who displayed them. This feature of the fair is held at six o'clock in the evening and is a whole show in itself.

Most of the gowns displayed last evening were designed by local tailors and modistes, although there was one worn by Mrs. H. D. Rodger that she designed herself. It was an evening gown of red velvet and silver cloth, cut in the early Victorian style, and in the new draped effect. It was rather long, in accordance with that decree of Monsieur Poiret's which women of fashion are resisting but to which, gradually and reluctantly, they seem to be yielding. Mrs. Rodger's easy grace and fine carriage set this creation off very becomingly.

She also wore one of Nelda King's afternoon models of green jade crepe de chine, with black velvet skirt trimmed with monkey fur. With this she wore a large hat of cloky material with a large ostrich plume on one side. This, too, was a very stunning gown, the charm and beauty of which were enhanced by the manner in which it was displayed.

Miss Norma Perkes displayed some of Mahriah's creations in a manner that must have made the designers in that shop entertain dreams of quitting Broadway for the larger fields in Paris and New York which doubtless they now think their talents entitle them.

One was an afternoon creation of fawn colored velvet with henna colored embroidery, worn with a taking little turban of the new varicolored metal cloth. Another from the same shop, and worn by the same lovely "model," was a blue tailored affair with henna colored hat and woolen scarf to match. This was the most fetching thing imaginable, and caused many exclamations of surprised delight. Of all the girls in Shanghai, or elsewhere for that matter, there probably isn't one who could have given such chic distinction to this suit.

Miss Perkes also wore a rose colored evening gown with a black lace cape with roses worked into the collar. This, too, was very becoming.

Mrs. Haskell, always charmingly dressed, was especially becoming in two creations at the fashion show, one by Rosemary, the other from Elegante. The Rosemary thing was a black satin dinner gown, trimmed with crystal beads, and cut in the new draped effect. The afternoon gown was a rose colored crepe de chine affair, embroidered in black. With this she wore a rose colored turban that, with the gown, made a lovely picture, both made lovelier by the great charm and beauty of Mrs. Haskell.

Mrs. Reddington displayed an evening gown of blue velvet, with jet ornaments, designed by Maison de Mode. This gown was cut en train, the train being lined with flowered silver cloth.

Mrs. Gay appeared in an evening gown of blue and silver lace, with rhinestone trimming. With this she wore a rose velvet cape that was very beautiful. Both were from Elegante.

Mrs. Stanley Wall exhibited a Maison de Mode creation for evening wear that was fashioned of silver cloth with a red fringe at the bottom, and embroidered in silver. With this she carried a beautiful red fan. Her afternoon gown from the same shop was of black taffeta, trimmed with lace, and with a black hat trimmed in silver to match. Mrs. Wall made a very charming picture in this frock.

Mrs. Vandevere, also in an Elegante evening creation of varicolored silver cloth, was very becoming. This gown was sustained in some miraculous manner by a single shoulder strap, which little touch of originality added greatly to its beauty and distinction. Mrs. Vandevere also wore an afternoon frock of black taffeta, trimmed in fet, and with this she wore a large picture hat that was very becoming.

Gen. Smuts Defends British Attitude

(Reuter's Service)

Johannesburg, Oct. 18.—Replying to a charge by General Hertzog that the British Government had appealed to the Dominions with regard to the near East over the heads of their own Governments, General Smuts said that he had no fault to find with the attitude of the British Government.

The Imperial Government had acted with great firmness and had saved, without bloodshed, the Empire and the world from very grave trouble.

cases of whisky to the value of $200.

(6) And that during the months of July and August, 1921 he conspired with one Bluementhal to forge certain trade marks, the trade marks of Jas. Hennessy and Co., John Haig and Co. and J. and F. Martel and Co., by applying the same to liquor inferior in quality, with intent to defraud. The fifth charge was made under the Merchandise Marks Act, and the others under the Larceny Act of 1916, not including the conspiracy charge.

The Magistrate: Before you proceed, who is Blumenthal? He is a French protege and has left Shanghai.

The Magistrate: "Are you quite certain?"—I am told so.

The Magistrate: "It is rather curious. You are charging this man with forging a trade mark and then you are charging him with conspiracy to forge a trade mark. How can you charge a man with forgery and also conspiracy to forge? I submit that you can."

The Magistrate: "Can you show me any law that enables you to do so? Can you charge a man with conspiracy to murder and charge him with murder? I do not see why it cannot be done."

The Magistrate: "How would you proceed? I shall proceed on the latter part of forging the trade mark and then proceed on the conspiracy, I submit it can be done."

The Magistrate: "The maximum sentence is two months imprisonment. In conspiracy there is no term of imprisonment fixed. It may be two years."

Mr. Goldring: "I would like to point out with regard to the conspiracy that we allege that false Hennessy brandy was actually made and packed in cases. With regard to Martel, the accused did not arrive at the stage of making it. There is a conspiracy, and it is a question of conspiracy in that case and not of trademark."

The Magistrate: "I am only asking you in fairness to the accused. Are you entitled to charge him with conspiracy and then charge him with forgery?"

Mr. Goldring: "The conspiracy only materialised so far as the brandy was concerned but with regard to the delivery it did not materialise. Therefore, there must be two separate counts. Conspiracy is only an agreement to do something whether it is done or not. The conspiracy was partially realised in the case of brandy and not in the case of John Haig and Martel."

The Magistrate: "I have already been told that the man before me was in the employ of Giesel. There is no section that covers it? I think that section 2 covers it."

The Magistrate: "May I call your attention to section 17, larceny by servant?

Mr. Goldring: I do not think it is incumbent upon me to charge him as a servant?"

The Magistrate: "Do you intend to prove his position. Do you not think it would be better to charge him as a servant?"

Mr. Goldring: "Then may I ask leave to amend it under section 17? I am considering this an act of super larceny."

Mr. Goldring then outlined the history of the case, which he said began last year in the month of November when the complainant was doing business with Reids, the defendant was either manager or employed by Reids as sub-manager. At the end of last year Reids became indebted to Giesel and Co. for a large sum of money, and it was agreed to deposit $50,000 worth of goods by way of security. Reids went into liquidation and a number of goods were hypothecated to various banks, among which were the Merchantile Bank of India and the Chinese American Bank.

After sometime in February or March this year, he said, the defendant approached the complainant and suggested that Giesel and Co. should take over what they could in the way of stock and plant from Reids and Co. and this was done. Among the stuff taken over was a quantity of brandy, American whisky and beer, and amongst the plant was a bottling, filtering and refining machinery. All this was at 1a Chaoufoong Road, where the godown of Reids and Co. had been, and on April 4 arrangement were made with the Mercantile Bank of India and the things taken over, together with the lease of the godown.

Then Mack was taken into the employ of the complainant, and Mack approached the complainant with reference to taking over certain vermouth which was deposited in Mackenzie and Company's godown at Pootung, the reason being that the Bank found the storage charges too high, and it was decided to bring it to the Choaufoong Road godown.

Among the cargo taken over were 200 cases of vermouth and it was expressly stated at the time that this vermouth should not be dealt with. It was strange and significant that these were listed in the godown keeper's books in the godown.

Mack continued in charge of this wine department of the complainant to September 18, when he was discharged. Mr. Giesel would tell the Court from time to time he had conversations with Mack regarding this vermouth. Mack wanted to have it relabelled and Giesel said he would not. Mack asked Giesel's permission to get rid of it as it were, but Giesel objected as he wanted to get rid of his own vermouth rather than that belonging to the Bank. On June 25 Mack had all this vermouth removed and taken to a godown belonging to a man named Li in Chapei, representing to the godown keeper that this Noilly-Pratt vermouth was his own and bought for his own account. Therefore it was not entered in the books as having been delivered. Giesel did not know anything about it and in this case Mr. Goldring remarked that it would be necessary to ask His Worship to communicate with the French authorities as a number of exhibits and godown books were held as exhibits in the case against Giesel in French Court.

The Magistrate: Where is the vermouth?—It has been seized and held by the French Court. So is everything connected with this case. The complainant's godown is still sealed up.

The Magistrate: "But to whom does it belong." "The Chinese American Bank."

The Magistrate: "Then it is not larceny. Surely, you know the difference between larceny and attempt at larceny. You are charging the accusol with larceny."

Mr. Goldring: "The intent to steal and taking the cases away is sufficient."

The Magistrate: "And the stuff is still there. Are you going to show that the accused got any money?

Mr. Goldring: "No. He did it just to sell it to Blumenthal. He took it away, without either Giesel or the Bank knowing to a godown belonging to a man named Li where it was stored in Mack's name. He tried to get rid of it to Bluementhal. It is a distinctly complicated case. Nothing more was heard about this vermouth by Giesel until September 7 when the godown was raided and on September 8 the defendant represented to the complainant that there had been a search and that there was a search for Hennessy and Martel brandy. On the followings day he came to the complainant and made a confession as to the whole matter. He said that together with a man named Alba he had bought a quantity of fake Noilly-Prat Vermounth and in trying to sell it got into touch with Blumenthal. Eventually an agreement was arrived at and $1,000 was paid by check, drawn by Blumenthal in favor of defendant which was endorsed by the defendant into Battistizzi, an Italian also an employ of Giesels.

The Magistrate: "Is he being charged?" "I do not know."

Mr. Goldring went on to say that when the godown in Chapei was searched this particular vermouth was found and it was there that the designated brandy was also found. Counsel took it for granted that the question of the brandy being faked was proved to the satisfaction of the French authorities. The way this was done was as follows: There was stolen from the good brandy of Giesel a quantity of, say half a barrel, and two barrels of spirits or alcohol were purchased by Mack in his own name and paid for by his own cheque and purchased from Slowe and Co. This was taken upstairs in the godown, where this process was going on of the bottling of brandy and of this material Mack made enough to fill fifty cases with this spurious brandy. The corks and capsules were taken from a quantity of spare corks and capsules belonging to the complainant firm. They were stamped with the stamp of Hennessy and Co., and in order to provide the blooks for the 6 cases a certain quantity of wood was brought in and there provided with the name of Jas. Hennessy and Co., Cognac, and these 48 cases were taken out in rather peculiar hours, at 1:30 p.m. and 5:30 p.m. by Mack from the complainant's godown at Chaoufoong Road, to the godown in Chapei. Alba was formerly assistant manager of the Far Eastern Bank and it appeared, said counsel, that he obliged the Italian employe and cashed the cheque for $4,000 that was given to Blumenthal.

With regard to the ten cases of whisky which were taken on August 30, counsel would prove with the aid of the man Li and two Chinese witnesses that this was taken from Chaoufoong Road on the defendant's representation to the defendant's mother's house on Tingshing Road. It was not known where these cases were now.

BOUGHT MORE BOTTLES

With regard to the question of the bottles, after exhausting all the bottles belonging to Giesel the defendant went out and bought 1,000 more bottles so as to complete the 48 cases of spurious brandy. With regard to the ten cases of whisky this was also taken from the whisky belonging to the complainant and sent by Mack to his mother's house, where for all the prosecution knew, they might still remain. On September 9 Mack came to the complainant and confessed these facts, said Mr. Goldring, quite voluntarily. On September 22 Mack sent in a statement through his counsel, Messrs. Andersen Andersen, to Giesel, a statement, which Mr. Goldring commenced to read to the Court.

Mr. Andersen: "This is not the statement that I sent."

There was an interesting discussion as regards this statement, which bore the signature of the defendant. Mr. Andersen said he was prepared to go into the witness box to clear the issue, remarking that the statement that Mr. Goldring was reading was a statement that Gisel had drafted and made Mack sign.

The Magistrate: "If there is a question of dictation it cannot go in. It must be free and voluntary. If there is a question that he was forced to make it and did it under pressure then I shall not admit it. Even if it were a question of the statement having been made and altered it should not be read."

Mr. Goldring: "It comes as a surprise to me, as I have a covering letter from Mr. Andersen."

Mr. Andersen: "I am prepared to go into the witness box and swear that is not the statement that I sent. The statement that I sent was not signed by my client."

The Magistrate: "If there is any doubt we had better not use it at this stage."

ALLEGES APPEAL

Mr. Goldring: "I shall try and prove another statement made by Mack. A day before the first two charges in this cases were laid, on the very morning of the charge being brought, the defendant visited the complainant and asked him to reduce the charges to as few as possible and that he would plead guilty to the charge of stealing the vermouth and brandy, and this was made in the presence of a party. The intention expressed by the defendant to plead guilty at that time only limited the charges in the first instance to two."

Mr. Goldring added that Mack had rendered great assistance in getting information in this case, and the complainant did not at the beginning desire to saddle too many charges against him.

The Magistrate: "It is not a question of compounding a felony, but you did not charge him in the first instance with the brandy, which you say the accused was prepared to plead guilty to. The charge that you say he pleaded guilty to he was never charged with then. You just said that he was prepared to plead guilty to the vermouth and the brandy."

The Magistrate said he had again to state that here was a case of a German who came to the British Court to prosecute a British subject for the protection of a French trademark. Mr. Goldring would have to go a long way to convince him of many points. Unless Mr. Goldring showed him a lot more than he had hitherto said, he did not see how the points could be clarified. Larceny was a distinct charge and the Magistrate desired more evidence on this charge.

The complainant, Albert Giesel, then went into the witness box and gave the history of his dealing with Reids, Ltd., Inc., and the connection of the defendant with his firm.

Extraordinary Skill of American Eye-Expert

"A new system for detecting and correcting the various defects of the eye with glasses was shown before a number of oculists last evening. Dr. R. A. Thompson, an American optician, has demonstrated, beyond a doubt, that he is master of his profession. Dr. Thompson perfected his system while studying in Germany, and the wonderful skill with which he discovers the various defects of the eye has caused quite a sensation among the eye specialists of Europe. By the "Thompson System," as he calls it, a mistake in fitting glasses is impossible. He certainly proved it last evening. Dr. Thompson shortly returns to Paris, where he will deliver several lectures before returning to America."

GENERAL CONNOR, NEW ARMY CHIEF, HAS FINE RECORD

Appointment To Tientsin Post Indicates Change Of Policy

Brigadier General William Durward Connor, U. S. A., has been appointed commander of American troops in North China in succession to Colonel Martin, and is on his way to Tientsin.

General Connor is the first high ranking officer to be sent to command troops here and his appointment is said to be the beginning of a new policy of the War Department as the importance of the post is growing.

General Connor is a native of Wisconsin and a graduate of the United States Military Academy at West Point of 1897. He was a member of the Army College staff until 1905 and then served with various engineering units in succession until at the time of the Filipino insurrection and Spanish-American wars, which he went through, he became a Brigadier-General.

When Manila was under army control General Connor served as city engineer, 1899-1900, and then was in charge of fortification work at New London, Conn. From 1905 until 1908 he was in charge of two important districts in the Mississippi river improvement work, and then became an engineering advisor on the General Staff. In 1916 and 1917 he again returned to the Philippines as department engineering officer, going from the Philippines to France for service with the Chief of Staff.

During the war General Connor served as commander of the 63rd infantry brigade, chief of the 32nd division, commander of the base sector at Bordeaux, chief of the transportation service, and assistant chief of staff of the American Army. For his services in France he was decorated with the Distinguished Service Medal, a commander of the Legion of Honor and Companion Order of the Bath.

P. and O. TO LOWER WAGES, INCHCAPE TELLS DIRECTORS

Navigation Company Not Profitable Under Present Conditions

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 18.—Presiding at a meeting of the Peninsular and Oriental Steam Navigation Company today Lord Inchcape said he feared that there must be a further considerable reduction in wages ashore and afloat if the ships were to be kept running.

Referring to the loss of the Egypt he said that the Board had experienced technical advisers and the regulations laid down by the Directors were very complete. The record of the Company spoke for itself.

Nothing had been or would be wanting to ensure the carrying out of every possible precaution to protect the lives of passengers.

The organisation and discipline of the Company was second to none but the human element must always be reckoned with.

Lord Inchcape said that many of their voyages had an adverse result, outward freights were scarce and homeward ones were to a larger extent unremunerative.

Operating expenses were far above those before the war. There were signs of a break in the clouds but apparently there was a poor year or two ahead.

Operating costs must be reduced to secure equilibrium or disaster would follow. Fortunately the Company had provided for bad years and could carry on but it must try to do more than make ends meet.

London, Oct. 18.—The Earl of Selborne has joined the Directorate of the Peninsular and Oriental Banking Corporation in succession to the late Sir Richard Vassar-Smith.

General Chen Is Much Alarmed By Foochow's Fall

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Oct. 19.—The fall of Foochow evidently aroused anxiety in Kwangtung where General Chen Chiung-ming on October 14 called a council of war to discuss the threatened operations from Fukien. It was decided to entrust the defense of the Kwangtung-Fukien border to Generals Hung Chao-ling, Liang Hung-kai and Huan Chun, order the Government arsenal to work day and night, establish a supply depot at Swatow and rush the construction of the road from Waichow via Fingshan, Haifeng and Lufeng to Swatow.

It is reported that negotiations are progressing for an alliance between Kwangtung, Kueichow, Yunnan and Hunan as autonomous provinces with Szechuen as a possible later participant. The position of Kwangsi is uncertain since General Chen Chiung-ming failed to secure the allegiance of General Ling Ho and the province is in a state of chaos.

FIRST GALLOPS OF SEASON NOT UP TO EXPECTATIONS

BY THE TOUT

It was a dull morning for the opening gallops of the Autumn training season, and the drizzling rain held up until after the gallops were mostly over.

The scribe and the 'Clockers' turned up in force for the first official times of the Autumn training, but much regret was expressedthat 'Old Papa' was not there to conduct affairs, and hence several good gallops were missed. We trust his successor, who shapes well, will worthily follow in his footsteps.

When referring to the Subs in my notes last week I mentioned there were perhaps half a dozen who were fairly good. I had in mind Paddington, Dinna Forget, Thespian, Comrade, Poonah and Dungannon. I now hear that Mr. Stormes, who probably owned the best in Thespian, has parted with him for the very substantial sum of Tls. 3,000 to a member of the Kiangwan course. Well, Stormes I congratulate you as a new owner on your luck, but having aspirations to win races, it is a pity you have parted with perhaps the only good griffin you may ever have the luck of owning.

Perhaps the old saying—Tls. 3,000 in hand is better than three prospective wins on paper, and as times are hard and cash scarce, you were wise.

The course Wednesday morning was decidedly on the heavy side and the gallops disappointing; at the same time I must pick out a few exceptionally fine performances—Sunstar, the Hongkong Derby winner, who did a mile in 2:15 3-5, last quarter, 30 3-5, and last half 1.5. Next, Thomas a'Becket who went a mile and a quarter in 2:52 2-5, last quarter 32 1-5 and last half 1:03 2-5.

Chang Tso-lin was the only griffin worth mentioning who negotiated the above distance in 2:53 2-5, but finished all out in 36 2-5. I fancy his distance is not over one mile, and he should win the Maidens.

WHAT WOMAN NEEDS

above all things are Health and Happiness. These are the true Woman's Rights! Every woman is entitled to them. Dame Nature intended her daughters to be healthy in body and happy in mind. Any woman conscious of pain and trouble which she feels must be removed will be well advised to make careful enquiry as to the cause. If it is found—as indeed is frequently the case—that a disordered digestion is giving rise to ill-health and the consequent depression of spirits, medicine of the right sort will doubtless soon set matters right. But it must be of the right sort. Beecham's Pills are to be strongly recommended for woman's needs. They may be taken with perfect confidence for derangements of the digestive organs, including such unpleasant ailments as sick-headache, biliousness, flatulence, constipation and the lassitude and worries often incidental to her sex. Every woman may get nearer to Health and Happiness by using

BEECHAM'S PILLS

1200 against 1800

A ton of coal will warm 1200 cubic feet of air from zero to 70 degrees by the furnace method—the same amount of coal will warm 1800 cubic feet by the hot water system; in other words

ARCOLA

of heating is 50% more efficient than the old furnace or grate fire method.

This advantage alone is sufficient to put the Arcola in front of others, but in addition Arcola gives uniform and healthful warmth to the whole house without attention: it does not need a cellar: does not rust or wear out: and is easily installed.

Your home or office may have the advantage of this modern system of heating. Ask us for an estimate.

THE ROMANCE OF A WALLFLOWER!—A POWERFUL DRAMA!

"SHELTERED DAUGHTERS"

Jenny was a sheltered daughter, all right. Her dear old Dad wouldn't even let her read the newspapers, for fear she would learn that there were such things as evil and scandal in the world! And then one day Jenny, the sheltered daughter, was in a front-page story, a scandal, and an international one at that! Of course, her part in the affair was quite an innocent one, but Dad concluded that he couldn't be responsible for her any longer, and so turned her over, with his blessing, to the nicest man in the world, who was glad to assume the burden of keeping Jenny safe.

Yak-Tail Trails

Shanghai variety. A Mongolian fly leaves a sting only slightly less noticeable than that of the bee when it unceremoniously 'sits down' on an unsuspecting client. The Mongolians, to a large extent, are insured against any consequences of fly stings because of the filthy existence they lead, but travelers, forced to emulate them in uncleanliness for the time being only, are not protected by brother and sister germs who advance to the fray and slaughter the new-comers.

ARCADY ODORS

In the center of the yurt the combination Mongolian cook-stove and heating apparatus holds sway. It is simply a fire of camels-dung called 'argol' (which gives off a splendid heat and as much odor) with a crude arrangement of iron rods from which hang the two pots in which the mutton is boiled and the tea is brewed. The yurts are generally 10 to 12 feet long, and from 4 to 6 feet high and despite the fact that some have rough holes in the top to allow the smoke to escape the yurts are generally so many square feet of concentrated smell and smoke.

In the yurts of the Mongols owning large flocks of sheep or herds of horses silk cushions, stuffed with soft sheep's wool or camel's wool, are scattered about in profusion, for many of the Mongols have a fondness for cushions after their long day's ride despite their horsey proclivities. Except for the cushions the other 'furniture' of all the yurts is the same—a chest, generally bright red wood, filled with all their earthly belongings, and a Buddha. The decorations are always blackened with smoke and grime and because of the Mongol's antipathy for water very seldom, if ever, cleaned.

"WOMAN'S SPHERE"

In the yurts woman suffrage holds sway. The Mongol male labors under the delusion that woman's sphere is in the home—and lets her do all the work. The women collect the camel fuel, mend the saddles and socks for the whole family, make the koumiss and koumiss cakes, boil the mutton and tea, and give the sheepskin mats an occasional shake on the annual spring house-cleaning day, although as a general rule the yurt's interior is aired only on moving day. The Mongolian women, in fact as well as fancy, are the bosses of the shebang as long as the yurt remains stationary. From the minute the Mongol family takes the trail, however, the man becomes the chief mogul again until the yurt once more comes to a rest.

The nomads have no sewerage or water systems and it is only the fact that they move from place to place on the desert often that gives the yurts any cleanliness

Next to the Mongolian's inherent dirtiness one of the most noticeable things about them that was forced to Serge and his companions' attention time after time—in fact at every yurt they stopped at even for a few minutes—was their inquisitiveness. Conversations in Mongol yurts, even those sirrupy sweet-nothing after-dinner confabs and verb-parties that so delight the heart of the average mortal the world over, all revolve about the fatness of the sheep, the condition of the grass on the range, and the possibilities of the latest wild pony the family has acquired. When those subjects have been duly exhausted the Mongolian host, excessively polite and hospitable in every other way, becomes rudely inquisitive.

Foreign travelers especially, as the members of the calvacade found out at every stop, were the especial prey of the yurt gossips because of their extreme rarity. In several places Serge and his companions were informed that only two or three foreigners—and they Russians—had preceded them, and in one village were taken as a whitish variety of Chinese. The host was greatly surprised to discover they were not Chinese and the others of the family immediately began inspecting them with that snickering curiosity bestowed upon zoological specimens.

In the next installment of this interesting serial of life among the Mongolians other features of Mongolian life will be described. It appears tomorrow.

Calls Export Duty On Rubber Needless

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 18.—In a letter in the Times Mr. C. W. Darbyshire contends that the proposal to pass rubber export duty legislation so as to operate from November 1 is not only undesirable but unconstitutional, at any rate in the Strait Settlements.

He declares that there is no urgent necessity for passing legislation by November 1 and if the Bill is passed in the Straits it should be sent home for the King's allowance or disallowance.

In the ordinary course of events this would give the opponents of such panicky and uneconomic legislation time to organise a protest against it.

Labor Conference Opens At Geneva

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, Oct. 18.—The Fourth Conference of the International Labor Organisation opened today at Geneva at 11 a.m. The agenda was submitted to the deegates, who number four from each State, 2 representing the Government, one employers' delegate and one workers' delegate. The question of emigration was the first to be discussed.

The Conference was opened by a speech by M. Fontaine (France), the President, who thanked the Swiss Government for permission to use its territory for the construction of the building for the International Labor Office.

He explained the reasons for the change in the questions from those submitted to the three first conferences and recalled the advice given by the Permanent Court of International Justice at the Hague. The perfecting of the rules of the international organisation was dispensable for the better grouping of the nations in conference and to make their labors more effective.

The speaker recalled that with the fourth conference the terms of office of the first council of administration terminated and thanked the Director, M. Albert Thomas, for his collaboration to which they owed many of the results obtained and the organisation of the Office.

M. Fontaine then proposed to appoint as President Lord Burnham, who presided at the last Conference. M. Collier (Belgium) for employers, M. Mertens (Belgium), for the workers, and M. Aguero (Cuba) on behalf of the Latin-American delegations, supported the proposals which were unanimously adopted.

Lord Burnham thanked the delegates and expressed his confidence in the success of their efforts.

In the afternoon the three groups, Government, employers and workers, held meetings to appoint their representatives.

Tea Stocks Down, Outlook Better

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 18.—At a meeting of Messrs. Harrisons and Crossfield today Mr. Heath Clark who was presiding said that the outlook was brighter but he did not think progress would go very far until exchanges were somewhat stabilised and the reparations question was practically settled.

As regards the tea outlook the bonded stocks in the United Kingdom had fallen from 197,000,000 to 140,000,000 pounds for the year ended last August and provided coarse plucking was not resumed the industry should experience a period of prosperity.

The estimated consumption of rubber was 340,000 tons for the current year and 360,000 tons next year. He hoped that elasticity would be given to the Colonial Office Committee scheme so as to prevent artificially high prices of rubber.

Exchange Fluctuations
Asia Banking Corporation

October 19, 1922

Spot bar silver was up 5/8 c. and forward 7-16 in London yesterday. The New York price advanced to 68⅛ cents and the London-New York cross rate to 447.

The changes in our official quotations here today were a rise in the Gold Dollar rate to 73½ a drop in the Yen rate to 65½ and a rise in the Franc rate to 990.

Our market at the opening was firm with sellers of Sterling at 3-4¼ for all deliveries up to China New Year, and of Gold Dollars at 74⅜ for October-November and 75 December-January delivery.

Speculators however became strong buyers at these rates and the market quickly eased off until, in the afternoon, there were buyers and sellers of Sterling at 3s. 3⅞d. for all deliveries to January and sellers of Gold Dollars at 74¼ October-November and 74⅝ December-January delivery.

There were sellers of Yen at 65 for November-December and buyers at this rate for October delivery.

Banks were quoting 3s. 4⅝d. for Sterling bills, 76 for Gold Dollar bills and 1035 for Franc bills.

China and India both bought silver in London yesterday and the market is reported as closing steady. New York also report their market as being steady with buyers rather than sellers at the official rate.

Coal Market

In their fortnightly report on the coal market, Messrs. Wheelock and Company state as follows:

Japan Coal.—There is no change to report in the condition of our local market since last writing, and we have nothing further to add to our remarks of a fortnight ago. The market is very quiet.

Fuchung Anthracite.—The market has shown signs of activity lately, and deliveries have been good. On account of its smokeless qualities this coal is becoming increasingly popular in large buildings where central heating is installed.

Kaiping Coal.—Although one hears rumors of trouble in the North railway facilities continue to improve and a good deal of coal arrived during the last two weeks. This however passed rapidly into consumption and no stocks of any kind are accumulating. Prices remain quite firm which is a situation that prevails over the entire East at the present time.

Tramways Returns

The following is the traffic return of the Shanghai Tramways, foreign settlement, for the week ended October 18, 1922, with figures for the corresponding week last year:

	1922
Gross receipts	$73,595.01
Loss by currency depreciation	31,118.89
Effective receipts	$42,476.12
Percentage of loss by currency depreciation	44.14
Car miles run	115,270
Passengers carried	2,599,856
	1921
Gross receipts	$60,940.56
Loss by currency depreciation	19,957.26
Effective receipts	$40,983.30
Percentage of loss by currency depreciation	34.50
Car miles run	105,663
Passengers carried	2,274,735

Exchange Market

In their weekly report on the exchange market, Messrs. Maitland, Fearon and Brand write as follows:

Exchange.—The price of silver in London has declined considerably during the past week, today's quotations of 33⅞d. near and 33¾d., forward beeing 1¼d. lower than those ruling last Wednesday. China appears to have been a consistent seller, which in view of the fact that exchange has remained below parity throughout the week is not surprising. Latest advices indicate that the silver market still tends towards weakness with China and the Continent sellers. The official T. T. rate on London has followed silver and now stands at 3-3½. A great deal more activity has been displayed in the market locally, though the bulk of transactions have been for speculators' account. The tone of the market up to the last two days has been weak, and speculators undoubtedly acquired a heavily overbought position, considerable resales have caused a temporary firmness at the close, against which Banks are sellers of sterling at 3/4d. The outlook is of course uncertain, but in view of the fact that silver is being produced on a very large scale and that genuine support from this end is still lacking, it would seem unreasonable to look for any material improvement at present.

Our stocks of silver are reported as follows:

Sycee and Bar Silver Tls. 39,583,000 a decrease of Tls. 10,000. Chinese and Mexican Dollars $38,450,000 a decrease of $30,000..

Estimated value Tls. 67,267,000 as against Tls. 38,540,000 held at this time last year.

Freight Market

In their fortnightly report on the freight market, Messrs. Wheelock and Company write as follows:

The export trade from China to Europe and America is still as stagnant as ever, if anything, the situation is worse as the tea-season is now practically over.

Coastwise.—Although this market has been quiet for the past fortnight, there are indications that a general improvement may be looked for within the next few weeks.

KINGMAN & BROS.
How to Preserve the Teeth

In order to keep the teeth in a good condition scientific precaution must be taken. Through negligence, decay and numerous other affections such as tooth-ache, dental periostitis, esteo-periostitis, necrosis of the jaw, etc., may arise. During the process of ingestion, there are settled on the teeth some deposits of mineral and organic matters, called tartar, which possesses a morbid power of pressing the gum. As an inevitable result of the presence of this tartar, the teeth will become elongated and movable and will, by degrees, absorb away the enamel, leading ultimately to the decay and degeneration of the teeth. The tartar is so hard and resistant to the process of brushing that it cannot be scraped off except with dental instruments specially devised for that purpose.

Dr. KINGMAN offers to the public his service for preserving their teeth at an annual subscription Fee of $10.00 per head to be paid in advance.

The work to be done by Dr KINGMAN to the subscribers consist in:—

(1) Cleaning of the teeth quarterly.
(2) Filling with gold platinum alloy only, when the teeth present holes.
(3) Inspecting the teeth at any time at the desire of the subscribers.

France's Army And Its Cost

THE report made by France to the League of Nations upon her land armaments puts the strength of the home and colonial forces at 690,000 men. The cost of maintenance for 1923 is given as 4,500,000,000 francs, or in American money, at the present rate of exchange, about $348,750,000. These figures suggest two questions. Can France be justly charged with militarism for keeping the strength of her land forces up to 690,000 men nearly four years after the armistice? Is the maintenance of such an establishment an unwarrantable extravagance in the light of the war debt of France to the United States? There are critics of France in Congress who protest against her spending upon the army money that she owes to the United States. The French statement deals with the charge of militarism, or imperialism, by pointing out that treaty obligations call for the employment of 160,000 men in Europe, the Near East and Africa, 92,000 of them on the Rhine. Colonial demands, in Morocco, Algeria and Tunis, account for 230,000 more on paper, though less than that number are actually in garrison. In France proper 335,000 men are stationed. Of the complement of 690,000 men, 100,000 are professional soldiers, 375,000 conscripts, 205,000 natives of the colonies and 10,000 foreigners. The French report says:

The military force of France is at present an essential factor of peace in Europe. France would be glad to reduce it after the terrible sufferings she has undergone, but she cannot be asked to do so as long as the German war spirit continues to exist.

The French declare that there are 7,000,000 men in Germany capable of bearing arms who could be mobilised. It is argued that Germany's hostility toward the new States, her attitude on Upper Silesia, the policy of Austrian absorption and a possible Russian military alliance, one or all, might precipitate war, especially when the commissions of control are withdrawn and the opportunity to manufacture munitions comes. "However firm may be the desire of France to avoid such conflict," says the report, "she would fail, in her duty if she neglected to provide against it."

The French military establishment, when compared with the armies of Great Britain and the United States, is seen to be economically administered. An army of 215,000 men will cost Great Britain $272,800,000 in 1923. Congress has appropriated $271,000,000 to maintain an army of 125,000 men and less than 12,000 officers for the fiscal year, ending June 30, 1923. The French land forces, five times as great as the American, will cost only $76,000,000 more. If it is true, as the French believe, that their army is today an essential factor of peace in Europe, is it not a good insurance of the ultimate payment of the French debt to the United States?

Parasol Hat Is Deauville Rage

BY C. F. BERTELLI

Deauville, France, Sept. 6.—The parasol hat is the newest wrinkle in sea fashions this season. It is not used to bathe in, but is buttoned over a rubber bathing cap while out of the water.

Hundreds of parasol hat styles were introduced, the favorites being made of straw, taffeta and organdie, 2 feet in diameter, in order to save the shoulders from sunburn.

Although the 1922 bathing suits are decollette and give the famous beauties an opportunity to show a broad expanse of back, they are, nevertheless, probably the heaviest on record.

In contradistinction is the lightness of the evening gowns, organdie being much in favor.

MORE GEMS THAN GOWN

Gabrielle, a famous Follies beauty, bet $5,000 that her jewels were heavier than her clothing. Her wager was taken up. It was found that her gown, underwear, half-hose and shoes were a half-ounce lighter than her treble string of pearls and seventeen bracelets.

Monarchs are rubbing shoulders with a legion of American fashion buyers of novelties.

"This is Crazyville," King Alfonso was overheard remarking the other day to Marquise de le Viana during the race-meeting when, after inquiring for a cigarette light from a trans-Atlantic visitor in a hurry, he got this reply:

"Don't bother me. I must run now and put $1,000 on a favorite."

The King laughed heartily, adding that he was having the time of his life away from court etiquette.

GAMBLE ALL NIGHT

The Shah of Persia is no less a conspicuous visitor. He is experiencing his first contact with the world after years at college.

The preference of Deauville to sleep in the day time and sit up at night, the biggest gambling plays are now continued until breakfast, which is served at 9 a.m. on the Casino terrace after a nightly turnover of about $3,000,000.

Mrs. Peter Cooper Hewitt's new husband, Baron Derlanger, is proving to be a regular mascot. Formerly a steady loser, she cannot stake $1,000 this year without multiplying it ten fold.

Good Manners And Hypocrisy

BY CLARA MORRIS

"I think there is so much hpyocrisy in good manners," said a woman whom I know very well, the other day.

"You mean," I quickly retorted, "hypocrisy may be found in fine manners?"

She tossed her head defiantly, declaring:

"That is a distinction, not a difference."

I persisted in my defense.

"You know quite well," said I, "that good manners mean sincere regard for others, self-discipline and service. Fine manners may mean being merely polite and well-bred in behavior."

The lack of good manners in all classes is to be deplored. It has been thought of sufficient importance for an agitation to be started in one city to teach manners in the public schools.

This slump in conventional dignity, this letting down of social bars, is the recognised aftermath of war.

Those who can recall the effect of the Civil War upon manners must shudder at the memory.

Today the frenzy of the World War is past, but the world has not yet recovered its poise.

Selfishness is the supreme foe of good manners. And in the present real solicitude for suffering humanity, there may be found hope for the redemption of American manners which, at their best, are agreeable and likely to win favor in any official or private gathering.

There is no need to worry over the lost manners of some of our men, for the loss is only temporary.

Many of us women, however, will acquire better manners when we learn how to conquer our nerves and conserve our nervous energies. For in spite of beauty cleverness and good taste, some women lack the exquisite charm of repose.

Many young women in fashionable social life, as well as some actresses, are incapable of seating themselves gracefully. They will crouch, they will flop, they will stand in front of a chair and fidget before dropping into it.

The average American woman can't—keep still.

This is the chief blemish of American manners and, just as soon as we women are convinced of this fact, we will conquer our nerves and acquire poise.

Let us teach our children manners for home use as a beginning, and, before we know it, there will be no reason left to complain of American manners.

"Manners are the happy ways of doing things," wrote Emerson.

The Crown Of Success

BY S. E. KISER

He started as a barefoot boy; he had
Such courage as the great alone possess;
His look was wistful and a little sad,
But Fate could not deprive him of success.

He passed obstructions where the timid paused.
No effort was too hard for him to make;
He bore discouragement that would have caused
A heart less hopeful than his own to break.

So, step by step, he kept his upward way.
Men learned in time to treat him with respect;
His thinning hair turned prematurely gray,
His faith was not confined to creed or sect.

His wife reigned in a palace on a hill.
His millions multiplied, his power grew;
Those who had tried to thwart his wish or will
Found other game it pleased them to pursue.

He taught his son to follow where he led,
To shun false pride and be above rebuke;
His daughter, flattered freely, kept her head
And secorned the soft proposal of a duke.

His shoulders dropped, at last, his work was done,
Ambition ceased to serve him as a goad;
His soul was satisfied, his work was done;
He rested at the far end of the road.

He has a grandson who is being sued
For sinful flirting with another's wife;
His daughter's daughter dances in the nude
And seems addicted to the reckless life.

The old man sits alone and gazes out
Across his wide estates; his words are few;
Success is his, but he appears to doubt
Sometimes that it is altogether true.

Eating For Power And Pep

BY OLE SALTHE

Director, Bureau of Food and Drugs, Department of Health City of New York.

Physical exercise and proper diet are two essentials of good health. You cannot obtain good health by physical exercise alone. Careful consideration and attention must also be given to the diet.

Milk is recognised by most of the nutritional experts as one of our most valuable foods. It is the nearest perfect food that we have. While milk is so valuable, there are also a number of its by-products which are also of considerable value. Take, for instance, buttermilk.

Technically speaking, buttermilk is the liquid which remains after the separation of butter from cream, or, in other words, it is a by-product of the manufacture of butter. The sourness of buttermilk is due to the presence of lactic acid.

The chief point of difference between milk and buttermilk is the lack of fat in buttermilk. Buttermilk is very easily digested because of the absence of fat and owing to the fact that its casein is present in finely separated form.

Buttermilk is frequently made from fresh or partly skimmed milk to which has been added a selected or cultivated lactic ferment or bacteria. When made in this manner it is generally recognised to have medicinal virtues.

The buttermilk sold in most cities is principally made from skimmed milk to which an artificial "starter" or ferment has been added. In many respects this form of buttermilk is superior to the buttermilk which is made as the result of churning, because of the fact that skimmed milk from which this buttermilk is manufactured has been produced under more rigid sanitary inspection than is maintained over the milk which is produced for butter making.

Milk is generally recognised to be an excellent source of vitamines—the food elements so necessary to proper growth and nutrition.

Sour milk, or clabber, is a common article of diet in many parts of the United States and is wholesome, and to those who care for it, very refreshing and palatable.

In conclusion, it might be pointed out that buttermilk is one of the most valuable foods and is the nearest substitute that we have for milk.

A person seeking health by physical exercise and proper attention to his diet will undoubtedly receive beneficial results by a greater consumption of buttermilk.

Summer Travels Of Butterflies

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS
Eminent Astronomer and Authority on Subjects of Scientific Interest.

What an unexplored world, full of wonders for the sensitive mind, though dull and monotonous for the apathetic, lies continually around us! Life is rich in proportion as these generally unnoticed things are gathered by an inquisitive intelligence. Here is a man in Magnolia, Arkansas, Mr. John C. Murphy, who during almost a third of a century has been finding intellectual pleasure, and chasing away worry, by keeping his eyes and his mind open to the curious conduct of a yellow butterfly, and I shall be surprised if what he has observed concerning this beautiful winged contemporary of man in the lower atmosphere, is not news to the majority of naturalists. He writes:

"Reading an article of yours regarding the movements of a caterpillar at Cliff Haven, N. Y., which, in spite of all obstacles and interference, persisted in going in a west-by-north direction, brings to mind the movement of a butterfly which I have been observing for more than thirty years—indeed, I have but to look out of the window now (August 22) to see one or two every five or ten minutes moving unflaggingly and unvaryingly in their southeastward flight."

He then goes on to describe the butterfly, which, he says, is yellow in color with a slightly greenish tinge. It has a wingspread of about two and a half inches, and begins moving from a northwesterly to a southeasterly direction early in July and continues until well into November, or until a killing frost, which rarely occurs in that region earlier than Dec. 1.

The butterflies always move singly, and never in groups, "but sometimes in a clear opening of several hundred yards in extent half a dozen or more can be seen at one time. They never stop in their flight unless they happen to pass within sight or scent of a bed of flowers. In that case I have seen them deviate from their regular course, twenty or thirty feet and settle on the flowers for a few moments, afterwards moving on again in the general direction southeast."

The direction of flight, Mr. Murphy says, becomes more towards the south as the season advances. In the beginning the direction is somewhat east of southeast, but late in the Fall, near the close of the migration, the direction shifts a little and becomes somewhat south of southeast.

"They generally move," he continues, "from ten to fifteen feet above ground. If they strike a dense woodland they will arise above it. Single or scattered trees they will go around; also around small buildings, but over large buildings. I have observed them from Atlanta, Ga., to Eastern Texas, and as far north as Indiana, and intermediate regions.

"Where do they come from, and whither are they going? What is their life history? I have speculated much upon these questions, but have arrived at no conclusion. Have you observed them, and can you throw any light on the mystery?"

Assuming the correctness of Mr. Murphy's observations, this is a very interesting subject. If man was really commissioned to have supervision over the other inhabitants of his planet, it is among his duties, and ought to rank high among his pleasures, to know and understand all he can about their lives. They are his wards—and may often be his instructors.

If it be true that these greenish-yellow butterflies spend the whole Summer and Autumn in an unceasing migration across the United States, always moving upon the whole southeastwardly, there must be some climatic reason for the fact, just as the migrations of birds are controlled by the seasons. But all such tribal movements imply a sensitiveness to impressions of nature that practically escape us. Each individual butterfly, according to Mr. Murphy, has its own independent sense of the direction in which it should go, and the control exercised by this sense endures through an entire season.

In the Fall the direction turns more toward the South or sunward, as if the little creatures understood that now the advance of the cold will be more rapid, and they must shorten their road toward the warm lands.

It will be seen that the observations that I have quoted relate to the interior basin of the continent. In the eastern States, if a similar phenomenon exists, the direction of flight should be either south or southwest, on account of the proximity of the Atlantic coast with its westward trend. A butterfly cannot travel very far in a day, and in the broad interior land there is abundant room for several months of delicious loitering among the sun-warmed flowers, while still moving across the winds, toward the Winter solstice—the Summer of another hemisphere.

TO KEEP CHILDREN WELL DURING HOT WEATHER

Every mother knows how fatal the hot summer months are to small children. Cholera infantum, diarrhoea, dysentery and stomach troubles are rife at this time and often a precious little life is lost after only a few hours illness. The mother who keeps Baby's Own Tablets, the Canadian children's remedy, in the house feels safe. The occasional use of the Tablets prevents stomach and bowel troubles, or if trouble comes suddenly—as it generally does—the Tablets help bring the baby safely through. They are sold by medicine dealers, or by mail at 60 cents the vial, from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 96. Szechuen Road, Shanghai.

Except in the case of a few very valuable lots, where a reasonable reserve has been specified, there is no reserve whatever. We insist on reserves being stated, because it is not fair to the buyers that they should be kept in ignorance of such reserves. It would be misleading our clients if it was stated "entirely without reserve", when perhaps, unknown to us, the owner is present in the room running up the lots till the desired point has been reached. This is what we want to avoid. Neither is it fair to us wasting our time on lots which will be withdrawn We want to be fair both to our clients and to the sellers.

San Francisco Welcomes Students From China

Big Party That Sailed From Shanghai On Steamer Nanking Warmly Greeted

Many letters have been received in Shanghai from the large party of Chinese students, which arrived by the steamer Nanking in San Francisco on September 12. In this party were 62 Tsinghua students and 94 private students from China. San Francisco gave to them a very warm welcome. Waiting for them at the pier were representatives of various organisations, led by Mr. Ling Lew, chairman of the reception committee and executive secretary of the Chinese Y.M.C.A. Among those present were Chinese Consul Koliang Yih, Miss Myrtle Mills and Miss Florence Chinn of the Chinese Y.W.C.A.; Dr. R. R. Perkins, of the Metropolitan Y.M.C.A.; Mr. George M. Day, Pacific Coast Secretary of the Committee on Friendly Relations among Foreign Students; Mr. Ira C. Lee, chairman of the Chinese Students Christian Association Western Department, and the Secretary, Dr. Y. Y. Tsu.

Badges, inscribed with "Welcome, Students from China" and printed sheets giving information about the details of landing and the program of the receptions were distributed among the new students. After the formalities with the Immigration and Customs officers the students were taken to their hotels.

In the afternoon, Dr. Frank E. Hinckley, Secretary of the China Commerce Club, and Mrs. Hinckley took a number of the students out for a sight-seeing automobile ride around the city, which was greatly enjoyed by all those who went. Those who did not take the ride spent their time in letter-writing and shopping. Dr. Hinckley was formerly in Shanghai as the first clerk of the U. S. Court. He and Mrs. Hinckley retain a deep interest in China.

The formal reception took place in the evening in the large hall of the Chinese Christian Institute. An interesting and varied program was given, including words of welcome, music, college yells and refreshments.

The next day was spent in more sight-seeing rides under the guidance of Dr. Hinckley and in visiting the University of California and the Chinese Students' Club of Berkeley. At the University of California reception, President Barrows honored the party with his presence and made an address, and at the Chinese Students' Club, Mr. Fong Wong, its president, said a few words of welcome.

The two days in San Francisco were to the new students days of kaleidoscopic interest, they write, their waking hours being either occupied with entertainments, chop-suey meals, sight-seeing trips and speech-making, or necessary business transactions incident to travelling in a strange land. The friendly and freely given assistance of the reception committee in all these matters meant a great saving of trouble, worry and energy to the new students.

A special train was provided by the Southern Pacific Railroad and the party left for Chicago at 11:30 o'clock, Thursday morning, September 14, greatly delighted with the warm welcome in San Francisco and with their initiation into the new life in America.

The story of the reception has been preserved in motion pictures by a Chinese friend, Mr. Joseph Sunn, who is interested in making films as an avocation. Those who have seen the film say it is an excellent reproduction, showing in succession the arrival of the steamer, the landing at the pier, motor ride across the city, visit to the University of California, ferry across the Bay, and departure on the Overland Special.

'Big Knife' Society Helps Rout Shantung Bandits

(China Press Correspondence)

Ichowfu, Oct. 12.—There has been a very noticeable improvement in conditions in the vicinity of Ichowfu during the past few weeks for which foreign and Chinese residents alike are very grateful. For the past eighteen months travel between this city and the railroad at Yishien, sixty miles away, has been fraught with a very real danger. Bandits have taken many travelers to their hiding places in the mountains where they are held for ransom, and in several instances in which the money was not forthcoming by a specified time they have been put to death. Countless others have been searched by the roadside and allowed to proceed minus their valuables.

For a time in the early summer there seemed to be considerable anti foreign sentiment. One of the foreign residents of this city was also looking after part of the work in Yihsien. This necessitated his being on the road a considerable proportion of the time making the trips in a motor car. On several occasions while passing through villages he was greeted with cries of "foreign devil, break his car, strike strike", but with the exception of passing through two showers of stones there were no attempts at violence. This feeling seems to have entirely disappeared and as one goes through the villages today he is asked to stop and have tea.

Physical conditions in this section of Shantung make it difficult to cope with the bandits, who, when pressed by the soldiers, have no trouble in retiring to their rendevous in the mountains. They are well armed, and several of the bands which have been terrorising the country between here and Yihsien have machine guns and small field pieces. Until the past month the soldiers seemed to have little success in their efforts to rid the country of these knights of the road, but suddenly conditions changed, and many bandits have been captured and brought into the cities for punishment.

The invulnerability of members of the Big Knife Society, or the Boxers as they were known in 1900, seems to have been one of the factors in the bettering of conditions. Most of the larger towns and villages have branches of this organisation, and recently they decided to help the soldiers in their efforts to clean things up. When the bandits realised that they were confronted by men over whom bullets and knives are supposed to have no power, they fled in all directions, and several of the ringleaders were later taken in custody. Another factor has been the discovery of those who have been acting as middlemen in the purchase of arms and ammunition. There seems to be a well defined plan by which such goods are brought from one of our Shantung ports and distributed widely. Once eradicate this evil and the bandit situation will take care of itself.

This is the third year since motor cars have made their appearance in this city, but little has been done in the line of road improvement. Recently the county official was called upon for his help in the matter, and he was shown that good roads were not only a help for the foreigners, but a distinct asset to the Chinese farmer. He very willingly promised his assistance, and as soon as the bean harvest is over he will call representatives from each village bordering on the main roads of the county, and instruct them as to the method to be followed in blasting rock and leveling and straightening the road in the vicinity of their respective villages. This is but one of the signs that this ultra conservative part of staid old Shantung is at last awaking from her long slumber and before long will figure as largely in the progress of the country as she has in the history of the past.
